Is China's mercantilism cracking up?

The world order that we grew up with is increasingly disorderly, and the UK is out on a limb. Since Brexit, relations with the EU are more cordial but still distant, while with President Trump's America, they've become more stressed.

The British government has been reaching out to China as the other major economic power, but what's in it for us - another golden era or just fool's gold?

George Magnus is an independent economist and commentator, an Associate at the China Centre,

Oxford University, and an adviser to some asset management companies.

He is a regular contributor to the Financial Times, Prospect Magazine and other written media, and appears regularly on BBC TV and radio, Bloomberg TV and other outlets.

Entry £4.00 including tea, coffee and biscuits!

Tea, coffee and biscuits will be available from 2pm and the talk will start at 2:45pm
